

Your key to information about English Learners,
ESEA Titles I and III, and all EL-related topics

NCELA provides technical assistance information to local schools and school districts, state offices of education, the US Department of Education, and others interested in the education of EL students. Our mission is to capture, coordinate, and convey a broad range of resources in support of an inclusive approach to high quality education for ELs. Topics include professional development and support for curriculum and development; standards, assessments, and accountability; as well as special topics such as EL students with special needs, young ELs, adult ELs, and STEM. Go to the NCELA website to

- sign up for the NCELAlist for announcements regarding federal grants and regulations, conferences and meetings, new resources, and job opportunities;
- request *AccELerate!, the quarterly review promoting all facets of EL education with articles by practitioners, researchers, and university personnel— the quarterly review often focuses on a specific EL topic; and
